Risks & Challenges

With prototype developed and well tested, we currently don't have any concerns regarding manufacturing. We have been working closely with our manufacturer for months, testing, training, and refining iKON. We have also put in our best efforts, and these efforts, we succeeded in finalizing our manufacturing and fulfillment with our partners and component sourcing.

Hence, as far as the risks and challenges are concerned we are very well prepared to prevent them. Instead we are concerned more about the unexpected delays that might arise due to factors like product, weather conditions etc. In case of any such unexpected delay, we will make sure that we can take steps to ensure that iKON ships with superior quality.
